

Livestock is a multi-dimensional solution for livelihoods and resilience.

More than in other agricultural sectors, investing in climate-smart and profitable livestock systems can generate and sustain jobs and businesses – especially for young people and women – and pull millions of people out of poverty